

Penampang, Malaysia

- Penampang District is located in Sabah's West Coast Division, with Penampang Town as its capital, where it functions essentially as a suburb of Kota Kinabalu.
- District covers only 425 square kilometers.
- 121,934 inhabitants (2010 census)
- Penampang has been experiencing big floods for years as the impact of climate change. The floods impacted the local economy significantly because they destroyed properties, crops and farms.
- Historically, the local residents of Penampang have done many initiatives relating to climate adaptation and mitigation.

